Waiter: Can I help you?

Brenda: I'll have two eggs over easy with toast and bacon. (See page 76 for a picture of eggs over easy.)

Waiter: OK. Would you like anything to drink?

Brenda: I'll have a small orange juice and black coffee, please.

Waiter: OK, I'll have that out in about 15 minutes.

1. What did Brenda order to eat?
2. What did Brenda order to drink?
3. What is black coffee?
4. When will her order be ready.

John: What do you want for lunch?

Teresa: I am not very hungry. I think I'll just have a salad.

John: They make a good chef's salad here. It has eggs, cheese, tomatoes and small pieces of bacon.

Teresa: That sounds good, but I think I'd rather have a spinach salad.

John: I'm starving. I'm going to have the club sandwich. And I'll have a side order of potato salad. Teresa: That is a lot of food. You must be hungry!

1. Who is hungry, Teresa or John?
2. What salad does John recommend?
3. What is in the chef's salad?
4. What salad does Teresa want?

Beth: I've never eaten here before. What do you recommend?

Waiter: We have really good salads. We have a nice spinach salad and a very good chef's salad.

Beth: I don't want any salad. I'll have a grilled cheese sandwich and a soda, please?

Waiter: We are out of the grilled cheese sandwich today. We have a club sandwich.

Beth: OK. I'll have a club sandwich, but cut the lettuce and tomatoes. I don't like vegetables. I would also like some french fries.

Waiter: I'm sorry we don't serve french fries. But we have potato salad.

Beth: Oh no. I don't like potato salad at all.

Waiter: Would you like a fruit salad?

Beth: No. I don't care for fruit, either. Just bring me the sandwich. And remember, no lettuce or tomatoes.

Waiter: I remember. What type of soda would you like?

Beth: I'll have a large diet coke with lots of ice. And I'll need a straw with that.

Waiter: Alright. Your order will be out soon.

1. Beth doesn't like many foods. We call someone like Beth a "picky" eater. Someone who does not like many foods is a "picky" eater. Are you a picky eater? Are your kids?
