Conversation: I Just Moved In

Jan: Pardon me. I'm sorry to bother you, but I'm trying to find a post office. Could you tell me if there is one near here?

Lyn: Yes. There's a post office just up the street.

Jan: Up this street?

Lyn: Yes. Are you new here?

Jan: Yes. I moved in last week.

Lyn: Really. That's nice. You'll like it here. People are very friendly.

Jan: Yes, I've noticed that. Do you know if we are allowed to grill on the balcony?

Lyn: No. The management is afraid of the fire risk.

Jan: Is TV reception good here?

Lyn: Yes, but you only get a few channels unless you pay for cable.

Jan: Oh, how much does cable cost?

Lyn: It varies, but you'll probably pay at least $50.00 a month for basic cable.

Jan: Oh, that sounds expensive. Maybe we'll just watch the channels we get without the cable.

Lyn: Well, I have to go now.

Jan: Oh, sure. Thanks very much for all the info. My name is Jan Brown.

Lyn: Hi Jan. I'm Lyn Reed. I live in the apartment at the end of the hall. If you need anything, just knock on my door. I'm usually at home during the day.

Jan: Thanks very much Lyn. See you later.

Lyn: Bye.

Conversation: Working Together

Jan: I'm tired. Let's call it a day.

Jenny: I agree. We can finish this project tomorrow.

Jan: I hate to call it quits before we finished. But we got a lot of work done today.

Jenny: Thanks for coming over.

Jan: My pleasure. I am glad we could do the work at your house. It is so nice and clean here. My house is a mess.

Jenny: I'm sure your house is fine. But we can work here anytime you want.

Conversation: Moving

Jessie: I don't want to move to Chicago. It's so cold up there.

Jamie: Is there any alternative?

Jessie: Not really. My husband was offered a great job in Chicago.

Jamie: I'll be sorry to see you leave.

Jessie: Thank you. I'll be very sorry to go. But we will begin a new life in Chicago. It's a good job with great pay. We'll be able to afford a house of our own.

Jamie: Yes, and you will make many new friends. I wish you all the best.

Jessie: Thanks, Jamie. Your friendship has meant a lot to me. You were the first person I met when I came here.
