Read this conversation: The Chef Has A Secret:

Guest: Your soup is delicious!

Chef: Thank you very much.

Guest: What's in it?

Chef: Oh a little of this and a little of that.

Guest: Please tell me how you make it.

Chef: Some chicken. A few vegetables. That's all.

Guest: Here is a pencil and paper. Write down the recipe.

Chef: I'm sorry. I can't.

Guest: Why not?

Chef: It's a secret.

Guest: A secret? You mean you can't tell me?

Chef: Yes, It's a family recipe. I can't tell anyone. You'll just have to come back to the restaurant to have some more.

1. What does the guest want the chef to tell her?
2. Why won't the chef tell the recipe?
3. Do you have any secret family recipes?

AN HONEST MAN

Daniel is at a restaurant. He is having lunch alone. He feels something on the floor near his foot. Daniel looks under the table. There is a wallet with $120 and a credit card inside. Daniel looks for identification. He finds a driver's license. The address is near the restaurant.

Daniel eats his lunch and leaves the restaurant. He walks down the street, finds the house and knocks at the door. A beautiful woman opens the door. "May I speak to Laura?" asks Daniel

"I am Laura," she answers. Daniel gives her the wallet. He says, "I found your wallet at the restaurant." Laura is very happy. She opens the wallet. All her money is there. Her credit card and driver's license are there.

"Thank you very much," says Laura. "May I give you a $40 reward?" "Oh, no," says Daniel. "Don't worry about it." Laura says, "You are a very honest man. I want to do something for you. Would it be OK if I took you to lunch tomorrow?"
